Camp Description

Experience STU – an Indigenous Youth University Preparation Camp – is a three-day program designed to offer Indigenous Youth in grades 10, 11, and 12 the opportunity to discover what it's like to be a student at St. Thomas University.

Indigenous youth from across the province and region will experience first-hand what it's like to be a university student by living in a St. Thomas residence, touring the campus, dining at the campus meal hall, learning from award-winning professors, taking part in fun activities, engaging in Wabanaki cultural teachings, and becoming familiar with the beautiful city of Fredericton.

This program is a great way for youth to learn about available post-secondary opportunities, to prepare for their future transition into university, and to be informed about the supports and services available to them, as they enter these institutions.

Experience:

- Classes from STU professors
- A tour of the campus
- Living in a dorm
- Dining at the campus meal hall
- Fun activities on campus
- Explore the city of Fredericton!
- Cultural teachings from the Elder-In-Residence
- Indigenous craft activities with local artists

NOTE:       ** Each student is responsible for their travel to and from campus ****
